

Violence against women: Resources for policing

Published on 3 February 2025

Training, guidance and research for police forces in England and Wales

Listicle 10 mins read

The College of Policing and key stakeholders have produced a list of supporting materials to help forces address vulnerability, violence and abuse and to manage the risk posed by perpetrators.

We have guidance, resources and training for officers and staff working to protect women and girls, most of which is easily accessible online. We're committed to continuously improving these resources, using the evidence base to review and update them, and supporting forces to be victim-led and perpetrator-focused.
