

National Police Firearms Training Curriculum (NPFTC)

This page is from APP, the official source of professional practice for policing.

First published 23 October 2013 Updated 25 March 2021

Written by College of Policing

1 min read

The National Police Firearms Training Curriculum (NPFTC) is a programme of nationally accredited firearms training. The curriculum has been developed within a framework of integrated modules and units that together represent a whole programme.

The NPFTC provides:

- a framework for continuing professional development
- consistency and standardisation across the range of training activities
- standardised national procedures and terminology for police use of firearms and related activities
- a vehicle for the promulgation of good practice in response to lessons learnt
- the basis for a professional register of practitioners and managers
- a basis for the development of national, regional and local role profiles (in accordance with the 'Direction on the compilation of armed policing strategic threat and risk assessments (APSTRAs)' 2019)

Note: access to the NPFTC is restricted to authorised members of the police service.

Tags

Armed policing