

Stalking or harassment

This page is from APP, the official source of professional practice for policing.

First published 13 March 2014 Updated 10 January 2023

Written by College of Policing

4 mins read

The police service receives many calls relating to stalking or harassment, cases are diverse, some can be complex to deal with and there are some where the perpetrators pose a real threat of harm to victims. There is a need to develop a proportionate response, focusing resources on those cases that require them.

It is sometimes difficult to differentiate between stalking or harassment (the law does not define stalking) to determine the appropriate response. This advice seeks to support first responders to make effective, risk-based decisions.

No framework or assessment approach is going to be 100% accurate but this advice, developed in consultation with our specialist partners and police practitioners, is intended to help responders to investigate effectively, identify and understand risk and respond appropriately.

Advice

- Advice for supervisors, managers and senior leaders on leading an effective policing response to stalking or harassment offences
- Advice for investigators
- Advice to police responders
- Flowchart for initial response
- College of Policing \(2021\) Revenge Pornography

Stalking protection orders (SPOs)

- Statutory guidance
- Briefing note for practitioners
- SPO briefing presentation for authorising officers

- SPO process map for authorising officers
- SPO process map for practitioners
- SPO checklist
- SPO transfer form
- SPO transfer advice

Supporting material

- Stalking poster
- Stalking presentation

The documents listed above override any advice contained within the Association of Chief Police Officers \(ACPO\) \(2009\) Practice Advice on Investigating Stalking and Harassment and College of Policing \(2013\) Briefing Note for Amendments to the Protection from Harassment Act 1997 relating to the initial police response.

Stalking protection order (SPO) national forms

- Complaint for a SPO application form
- Complaint to vary, renew or discharge a SPO
- SPO bundle checklist for magistrates' court
- SPO notification requirement form
- SPO OIC MG11 form
- SPO summons form
- Superintendent's authorisation to make an application for a SPO

Tags

Stalking or harassment