The Home Office policy paper outlines principles and practice guidelines

Brief 1 min read

The Home Office has released a new policy paper, written by professors from Durham University and London Metropolitan University, which outlines principles and practice guidelines for interventions with perpetrators of domestic abuse.

The paper includes seven standards and practice guidelines to ensure that interventions are commissioned and delivered effectively, with a priority on:

- enhancing the safety and freedom of all victim-survivors
- holding perpetrators accountable while treating them with respect
- offering opportunities for change

The guidelines also emphasise the importance of delivering interventions equitably and ensuring that staff are skilled and supported in responding to domestic abuse.

Monitoring and evaluation of interventions will also take place to improve practice and expand the knowledge base.
