

Opportunity for an external organisation to deliver our post (firearms) incident management training

Published on 19 June 2023

We're inviting bids to deliver our post (firearms) incident management training to UK police forces

News 2 mins read

We're inviting organisations to bid for a commercial licence to use our post-incident management (PIM) training. This licence would allow the organisation to deliver training to delegates from:

- Home Office police forces
- other organisations who are licensed under a College of Policing firearms training licence

This bid invitation is for a five-year licence to use the College of Policing's PIM training course. It includes our:

- five-day PIM training courses
- three-day PIM reaccreditations

The term post-incident describes the period following the discharge of a firearm by the police, or where an investigation into police action is to be conducted.

A post incident manager's role is to facilitate, manage and ensure the integrity of the post-incident procedure.

Submit your bid

The deadline for applications is Monday 14 July at 5pm.

To submit your bid:

- read the following four supporting documents
- complete a bid application form quoting licence bid reference number COP004

- submit the form to the Copyright and Licensing Team at copyright&licensing@college.police.uk before 5pm on Monday 14 July

Supporting documents

- Invitation to bid letter
- Licence description
- Bid application form
- Licence agreement

Any questions relating to this bid should be emailed to the Copyright and Licensing Team at copyright&licensing@college.police.uk.

Tags

Professional training Firearms