

Legal quick reference guides - Guidance overview

This page is from APP, the official source of professional practice for policing.

First published 29 September 2016

You can only lawfully stop and search a person if you have a legal basis for doing so in the particular circumstances. You must also apply that power in a legal way. As with all decision making, the officer must have due regard to the Code of Ethics and the national decision model throughout.

Tags

Stop and search